About the Training Course

Autism, Relationships, Friendship & Getting On In The Social World

For many children and young people on the autism spectrum the most challenging times will be those of a social nature. Course tutor Dr Luke Beardon will share his valuable insights and provide you with a knowledge update, tips and practical information on how best to support individuals on the autism spectrum. Key areas the course will focus on -

- Social understanding
- Issues arising from difficulties in social understanding
- What is meant by friendships/relationships for autistic individuals?
- Sexuality and relationships

The course will be taught through a lively mix of presentation, scenarios, case studies and discussion to ensure your learning is interesting and informative.

Course Tutor

Dr Luke Beardon has an engaging and motivating style of teaching, he is currently Senior Lecturer in autism at Sheffield Hallam University. He has worked in the field of autism for approximately 20 years and has vast practical experience of working with people with autism and asperger syndrome. As well as carrying out research he lectures in autism and asperger syndrome at all academic levels and provides consultancy around the country. He is the author of numerous publications on autism and is co-author of the ASPECT report, the largest consultation with autistic adults at the time.
